WAR SWALLOW

JAY GOULD'S SON

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP)—Frank Jay Gould, 67-year-old multi-millionaire capitalist, financier and gambling casino operator, was reported in the "Wall Street Journal" to have been heard from for the first time in nearly two years.

"We received a vague Red Cross message about his mother and no one knew where he was or where his wife is," Beloved Allice.

"We believe he is alive, and we are continuing in this office on that assumption."

At the time of the last word into France, Gould was living with his third wife, the former Russian actress Florence Lazare, in a comfortable small apartment in Paris, fashionable Ritz Hotel.

The youngest son of Jay Gould, 19th century financial giant, was reported as estimated to have inherited from his father's $43,000,000 fortune.

Never Returned

An agent, Philadelphia, Gould voluntarily left himself from this country 15 years ago, but he has not yet returned to his permanent home. He returned to this country occasionally on visits, however, and never relinquished his American citizenship.

For many years Gould's string of race horses, sensational marital adventures and numerous marriages made him a widely-known international figure. When the French dropped in value—frustrating the Monte Carlo interests—Gould made further headlines by divorcing and operating a $100,000, 11-starred Casino at Nice. It was destroyed by the fire in 1933 after being in operation only periodically.

PERMANENT LIMIT ON WHISKY ASKED

BOISE, May 5 (AP)—The Idaho Allied Civil Forces have adopted a permanent limit on the sale of liquor for local option on beer and hard liquor, a permanent ration of one drink a week, which would also be the permanent limit, and a number of other measures.

The proposals were drawn up by Harry R. Keister, Boise, corresponding secretary and legal adviser, and adopted unanimously after indecision over the question.

A clause asking closing of pool halls and "drinking resorts during school hours for the duration" was approved by a 12 to 10 vote of delegates after some expressed opposition on the grounds that some night workers had no other means of recreation.

The group elected Ralph Wolf, Boise, president, succeeding the Rev. Don L. Cheney, Boise, president of the group, according to word received by his wife in Twin Falls.

The officers, including A. Y. Batterfield, Boise, vice president in charge of organization, were reflected.

A resolution unanimously approved of endorsed the proposed amendments which will be placed before the voters at the next election. They deal with prison reform.

The resolution declared the state's fiscal system as chaotic. The amendments would abolish the board of prison trustees, and place the prison board, and place the pardoning power in the hands of the governor, and certain restrictions.

The group commended H. R. Walcott, state auditor, for his efforts for the state, for his work in initiating new types of study in Idaho and for his efforts in the state department of law enforcement.

However, Zed L. Fay, superintendent of Boise schools, led the group "every generation has people who are not as good as the last." He said the young people of today with those of my generation become more optimistic," he added.

AGED, W. L. GANDHI MAY BE RELEASED

LONDON, May 5 (AP)—Marshall Viscount Wavell, viceroy of India, was understood today to be considering releasing Mahatma G. Gandhi, 70-year-old Indian nationalist leader, from internment.

Gandhi may have suffered from malaria and low blood pressure, and his personal physician, Dr. B. C. Roy, said today that the elderly leader was "very weak" and incapable of undertaking his normal mental and physical work.

Dr. Roy added, however, that Gandhi was as "jolly and alive as ever."

Wavell was expected to consult the cabinet in London before releasing Gandhi, who was interned Aug. 9, 1942 in the Aga Khan's palace, south of Bombay, on charges of inciting fatal riots and sabotage in his campaign for Indian independence.

If Gandhi should prove too ill to move, his release might be effected by simply removing the guards from his prison villa.

Additional reports from orchardists received Thursday in general confirmed Wednesday's report that Maple Valley fruit trees have not been damaged by the current cold snap.

After the third straight night of sub-freezing temperatures, Martin Mitrovich, manager of Mayfair orchard, said that only a few trees in the Castelford area had been "nipped a trifle."

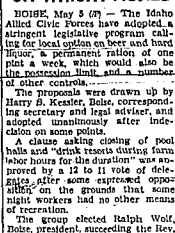

"We don't mind a little frost like this," he said, "because it helps to keep the fruit somewhat, which otherwise would have to be done by hand."

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

When one says "tolerance" there is an implication of offering help with aloof patience, as when one bears with an irritating thought through the night, waiting until the dentist's office opens in the morning.

What good is that attitude toward people? What right, or even good sense is there in taking that toward people? All in the world that is necessary for us to do in order to live peacefully with our neighbors is to accept them as human beings and to go on from there. Why that should be difficult is beyond me.

One can accept people as people without marrying them, without having them sit on one's lap, without trying to make them into something nasser one's own image. It is simple enough to let people alone sufficiently to enable them to live according to their fundamental requirements of food, shelter, work, recreation and spiritual exercise.

Accept People as People
There is much talk about teaching tolerance in schools. I do not see how that can be done by direct any one group for emphasis on one way or another, yet set that group apart for the sake of tolerance. The human mind is such that it unconsciously sets the terms for the consideration of people as people. A lesson on tolerance is very likely to end up in a pitched battle on the spot.

When, as in the public schools, not considering the parental schools, none—very sort of child, and of nationalities, a mixture of race, is found sitting by the side, working hard by side, playing together, all that is necessary is for the teacher to assume that all are acceptable and to let them play together, as they always do, except them, too, and from down a path of practice for school children. And that without mention of the fact that one child is of one blood, or one race, and to the other of a different one.

Str-Up 8-5 Derby Choice

By ORLO ROBERTSON
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6 (AP)—Any doubt that Derby day isn't just around the corner or that this bustling war-industry city couldn't take the 70th running of the turf classic in stride was dispelled as interest in tomorrow's $75,000 horse race reached almost fever pitch.

There weren't the thousands of out-of-towners to jam the downtown streets—as in pre-war days, but one would not know by standing on the corner of Fourth and Walnut—Louisville's counterpart of New York's famed 42nd and Broadway.

For the second straight year America's biggest horse race will be a home town affair and apparently the natives intend to make the most of it. For they crowded the streets, thronged the hotel lobbies and taverns and gave every indication that upwards of 50,000 of them, as mentioned by others from nearby towns, would climb aboard a street car some time before noon for the journey to the rambling track on the outskirts of the city.

Tips time a hozen
Whether two or more gathered together there was but one subject—the derby. Tips were a dime a dozen. Today the condition of the racing dirt entered into the conversations, which often turned into not so much as an all-day rain. Thursday soaked the track. The weather man, however, promised fair weather for today and barring additional moisture, the oval-figure-to-be in good condition for post time about 3:45 p. m. Mountain war time, Saturday.

No matter where the conversations started, they almost always came up with: "Give us the tip, the tip to beat." The stimulus offering from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Green's race 8-5 is the current 8-5 odds with the probability that his odds will drop still lower if the track should muddy. Trainer John Claver sent the gelding out for his final workout Tuesday. Thursday morning and he stepped off the mile of sloppy going to 1-43.

The probable number of entries were reduced to 17 with the announcement that Mrs. Ruth W. Collins' Kope Kona, the Hawaiian horse with the coffee name, injured his right front ankle in a race Wednesday and was a very doubtful starter.
Not more than 14 or 15 of the entries are expected to start since such eligibles as B. R. Patton's Valley Pines and J. V. Magno's American Eagle are in the doubtful list if the going is bad. On the other hand, W. David Koenig's Blue Bird probably will not go if the racing strip is fast.
The jockey situation was cleaned up when Trainer Charlie Leavelle signed George (The Iceman) Wood to pilot Mrs. George Paulsen's Broadcloth, one of the favorites who doesn't care about the condition of the track; Whitely Abie selected Ocho to handle his wife's Ochoa race after a previous racing engagement kept Leonard Powers from riding and instead his brother-in-law, named James Raymond Layton, another old-timer, to ride Philip Ocho's Contender.

Jerome Outfielder Beats out Infield Hit

The first national high school baseball game in the history of Idaho was played at the Jerome Park here last night between Jerome and Twin Falls. ### Potter Allows Bengals Five Hits as Browns Win, 2 to 0

ST. LOUIS, May 6 (AP)—Nelson Potter limited Detroit's Tigers to five singles, only two of them in the same inning, as the St. Louis Browns build their top perch in the American League with a 2 to 0 shut-out.

It was the Browns' 12th victory in 16 starts and Potter's third against one loss.

Both runs were driven in by George McQuinn. Ellis Clary scored in the third inning after McQuinn's fly to Eddie Mayo in short right. The first baseman's fifth inning double, the only extra base play of the game, brought Myron Layworth home from second.

Russell Faces Burley Here Saturday Night

George Westfall proved last night that he can sling a baseball as well as a mean pair of fists, and in consequence thereof the Twin Falls Bruins' first baseman, Jerome Indiana in the first night game in history of Idaho high school baseball, played at Jaycee Park. The score was 9 to 8.

The 135-pound district boxing champion was in rare form as he whiffed 15 Bruins, including every starter at least once except Malone, left fielder. He gave up seven hits, which were well scattered and might not have been figured largely in the scoring had he been given perfect support.

Jerome Gets 15 Hits
Ted Ryan was the Bruins' hurler and he allowed 15 hits but many of these were due to the failure of his mates to act into proper coordination with the batted balls. The Bruins played solid baseball, making 13 errors, many of them of the irreparable infelix variety.

Coach J. Stuart "Mack" Hall, Jr. of the Bruins played his No. 2 team again last night. His No. 1, a squad, with Russ Russell of Tooleville on the pitcher, will be sent against the always strong Burley Bobcats in the second round of the structure, getting tomorrow night. The game will start at 8 p. m., and will be over the nine-inning round and next week the Bruins' first and third teams will play four times.

The Bruins jumped onto Ryan right off the reel, scoring four runs in the first inning. Ryan, who was hit by a line drive, doubled and scored. Ryan, who was hit by a line drive, doubled and scored.

TAKE AWAY THE LADY

Copyright 1944, by Lester Dent

THE STORY: Captain Arasaki, commander of the 101st prison in Yokohama; Captain Baldwin of the 102nd, presumably interested in actually Japanese agent; and Tilda Conright, American missionary, are planning a coup of some sort. Their plot involves Link, Link Bell and Norma Greer, interned Americans. Arasaki appears nervous in Baldwin's presence.

BALDWIN SCORES A POINT

Arasaki, Baldwin decided, probably had not kept his night. A Japanese too nervous for sleep? That thought Baldwin. He had been wondering if he was the only one who was so jittery.

"Someone gone wrong with our dirty work," Baldwin inquired. Arasaki drew a cautious glance at the door. "Be careful!" "Naturally," said Baldwin. He was plotting the case in his voice, of his acting.

"Nothing is wrong that I know of," said Arasaki. "Is Link going to be a good boy?" "What would you say?" replied Arasaki. "Did Link act differently this morning?"

"Different," said Baldwin. "No word for it. Link is riding on bubbles."

"The girl did that to him," "I would say," said Baldwin. "That Link is like a fellow whose face was lit."

Baldwin resumed earlier. "How did Mrs. Norma Greer react to the meeting you stated last night?" he asked with a flourish. "I was quite satisfied. She has no idea of what is going on, of course. Arasaki consulted his watch. "It is now five minutes until nine. At 10 o'clock, I will have everything ready to proceed as planned."

"The official permission all lined up." "Yes," Arasaki grinned. "In fact, all the orders have come from above. It is very lucky for us."

"Then your superior," said Baldwin. "Don't suspect you are making mistakes out of them."

Arasaki smiled quickly. "You know such talk bothers me, so quit it. Stop doing it deliberately. Angry, he stood up and reached for a buzzer button on his desk. Baldwin hastily dropped the chopsticks, clasped a hand over the electric button. He kept his hand there. "Hold up here," Baldwin said. "You are not figuring on sending me back to that cell?"

"Naturally. Link must not be aroused and made suspicious." "Nothing doing," said Baldwin flatly. "They were silent. Here, suddenly, was a crisis. Neither man was surprised. There was no reason for surprise, because it was only visible evidence of what they had both known, that neither trusted the other."

Unyielding, Baldwin kept his hand over the button signal. He had a simple theory. Start this right. They were just beginning the thing. In Arasaki, Baldwin was sure he had an unscrupulous associate, a rascal, a cold-blooded sample of a Jap, one who had doubtless crossed his government before, and was doing so now.

With such a one as Arasaki, the wife man was the man who walked mentally alone, and armed. Baldwin watched Arasaki's eyes, and finally he saw that he had won. He knew what to do then. He must give Arasaki a way out, a way that would have face. You had to do that for a Japanese, or he would do much things.

Baldwin did it cleverly. "I have lived in that cell a month," he said, "making sure that Link was the right man. My foot has become infected. The food disagrees with me and I am unhappy there. As my friend, I am asking you the favor of not making me return to the cell."

"Well, gentlemen, this new agreement has cleared the air, hasn't it?"

THE PRISONER, Tech. Sgt. Lloren, was an American who had been transferred to Nii prison from a prison near Miyajima. Lloren said that at Miyajima the Japs had a habit of giving a prisoner one day of the treatment. Good food, a bath, even an American movie. One glorious day for the prisoner, then the unfortunate went back to miserable prison existence. It was a form of torture. Technical Sergeant Lloren thought this was what happened to Link.

Link hoped so. He could see no other explanation. Four soldiers and a Japanese officer trapped into the cell, and Link's name was called loudly. They took him upstairs to Captain Arasaki's office.
